2025 Water Quality Report

The State Water Resources Control Board's Division of Drinking Water (DDW) requires community water systems to release an annual Consumer Confidence Report, or Water Quality Report. This document offers essential information about the safety and quality of your drinking water, highlighting compliance with both federal and state standards.

City staff has been working diligently to prepare the 2025 edition for public distribution. The City of Seal Beach's report presents a detailed overview of the local water supply, based on water quality data collected throughout 2024. It outlines the water's sources, its contents, and how it measures up to regulatory requirements. As in previous years, the water delivered to your home continues to meet or exceed the quality standards set by federal and state regulatory agencies.

The report will be mailed directly to all Seal Beach water customers in mid to late June and will be made available on the City's website for convenient online access.
